

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information providing apparatus for registering the delivery of data for providing a content is disclosed, that comprises a storing means for storing a content that is provided, and a delivery designating means for designating a delivery condition for delivering a content, wherein a delivering apparatus presents data necessary for considering the delivery condition that is designated to said delivery designating means.